

From the Soil

Erik Gleibermann

On the prison rooftop Mandela grew tomatoes to feed every man, the one who bled from the neck,
tightened the rope,
considered reprieve,
cleaned shit and memory
the next morning.
One flesh digests the seeds.